

Cookies:

A Cookie is a small text file that is sent by a web server to your computer or internet enabled device when you visit a website. Cookies are used to enable websites to work efficiently.

We may use cookies for collecting information about you. The cookies enable our website to remember you, to understand what you like or do not like about our site, to understand what you use or do not use on our website and thereby help us to design products or services that you are interested in. The cookies may be used for the following purposes:

- (i) To remember your sign in credentials so that you need not have to sign in each time you visit our website.
- (ii) To remember whether you are already registered with us for receiving newsletters or other communications to enable us to send it to you.
- (iii) To enable you to effectively participate in surveys and to help us understand whether you have already taken part in the survey or not.
- (iv) To remember your user details to respond to your queries on our comments/contact page
- (v) To keep track of advertisements and compile aggregate data about site traffic and site interaction so that we can offer better site experiences and tools in the future.

We do not have access to or control over the cookies that are enabled by third party applications or websites on this website. Hence you may visit their websites to understand the manner and purpose for which the cookies will be functional.

You are free to avoid the setting of cookies by adjusting the settings on your web browser. However, there are no industry standard options for disabling the cookies without compromising on the functionality and features of the website. Disabling the cookies might result in disabling of certain features or functionalities. Hence, we advise you that you may not disable the cookies.

Links to other websites:

Our website may contain links to other websites. We have no control over the collection or disclosure of your information, that you may provide to such websites and hence we shall not be responsible for the same.

This Privacy Policy does not apply to other third-party websites or links available on our website and hence you are advised to check their privacy policy before navigating through their site or disclosing your information.

Children's Information:

We do not knowingly collect any personal information of children. Parents are encouraged to monitor the online activity of their children. Upon understanding that any such information has been shared by your child, you are requested to intimate us immediately to enable us to remove such information from our records.

Grievance Redressal:

Any grievances relating to your personal information can be addressed at mail@muthootcap.com and 0484-6613450